

That is important to you...

You still probably remember our parents' forum. You were able to give suggestions on improvement there. Many ideas for improvement originated from your wishes. Here, you can read about exemplary objectives that were formulated in many schools:

More intensive incorporation of the logbook in daily school life.

Use the school website so that parents can be involved in school life.

Reach more parents and support each other.

Create an overview of all teachers with photos and contact details.

BiFoKi at a glance

We have developed further training for cooperation in inclusive schools. The further training targets year-based teams of the 5th class in comprehensive and secondary schools.

In the further training, we have, together with the teachers, worked out how they can work well together in a team. Cooperation with the parents was also an important topic. We also spoke with the parents about what they want from the school. We then discussed this wishes with the teachers and developed objectives. The cooperation between the school and the parental home can be improved through the further training. The pupils also benefit from good cooperation.

Our objectives

The further training is supposed to promote an approach that is inclusive. The cooperation between school and parental home is to be enhanced. All pupils are to be well supported. Teachers get tips and ideas for implementation.

Head teachers and department heads

We visited 28 schools in the whole of NRW and interviewed a total of 2133 pupils.

299 participants of the further training filled out 630 questionnaires.

269 parents attended our parents' forums. In total, 2055 questionnaires were filled out by parents at home.

Results from our surveys

97% of the pupils answered that the teachers paid attention to all pupils.

92% of the pupils answered that their parents should know how they are faring in school.

However, 40% of the pupils have concerns if their teachers and parents are in close contact. It could help if it was clarified that the contact between school and parental home has nothing to do with punishment. 89% of the teachers answered that they cooperate well with the parents.

Also, for 96% of you as parents, good cooperation with your child's teachers is important. That is a good basis for a good relationship with your child's teachers.

Thank you

A total of 6963 questionnaires were filled out in BiFoKi by you as parents, by the pupils and school staff. Schools should develop themselves further and everyone can help.

Thanks to your support, a lot can be achieved.

We say
THANK YOU!
