Plagiarism Disclaimer of the Department of Philosophy

I hereby declare that this paper, "[Title]", is my own and autonomous work. Besides consultations with my supervisor, as are customary in our department of philosophy, and discussions with fellow students, I have not sought any outside help. I have not made use of any other sources and aids except those given in the reference list. All texts either quoted directly or paraphrased have been indicated as such.

I have made use of electronic resources such as DeepL or ChatGPT only in matters of research, translation and proofreading, if at all. The text is neither wholly nor in parts AI-generated. The text is in structure, content and use of language my own work.

I am aware that any use of artificial intelligence, such as ChatGPT, for text production will be considered a serious attempt at fraud. The same applies to the tacit adoption of text from individuals.

This work has not been submitted to any other examination authority, neither in this nor in a similar form.
